

About Work

As one of the largest growers of berries in the UK, the Hall Hunter Partnership has many jobs available from April through November. Most people who join the business start as pickers. There are other job opportunities too and of course possibilities for promotion. The company has a long and established reputation for running its farms like a large family, where everyone is cared for and respected. We are proud that over 70% of our current team have worked for us before.

We like to employ motivated, passionate and energetic people, who are keen to work on the farms learning about the fruit and the way we harvest. Picking fruit can be hard work and sometimes require long days but it is fun working alongside new friends and there is the potential to make good money.

In the height of the season we offer extra working hours to give you the opportunity to earn more whilst you are here.

About Payment

Your pay will be determined by:

- How much do you pick each day
- The quality of the berries you pick

You will receive holiday pay and have UK taxes & National Insurance deducted. You will be paid weekly directly into your UK bank account. You will also be given a pay slip showing what you have earned in the previous week, less any deductions.

The days when work may be available and the hours worked are crop and weather dependent. You will normally work up to 6 days a week, with activities arranged for you to participate in, if you'd like, when you have a day off.

The current (2025) minimum wage in the UK is £12.21 per hour, overtime will be paid at a rate of £15.26 after 48h. In 2024, on average, our pickers earned £550 per week.

Life outside Work

Your time at HHP is as much about the friends you make and the fun you have as it is about the work.

We have a friendly, family-style atmosphere at all of our sites. We organise regular sightseeing trips, visits to the local town and supermarket, sporting events, parties, and BBQs. Our camps also have football and volleyball pitches.

We strive to create a welcoming and friendly environment for you to live in and will support you as best as we can during your stay. We believe we do it better than anyone else, which is why so many people come back each year.
